

Exothermic

Energy is released into the surroundings as heat. As a result, the temperature of the surroundings increases.

Endothermic

shutterstock.com • 346551629

Energy is absorbed from the surroundings. As a result, the temperature of the surroundings drops.